Green Jobs for Sustainable Development Ana-Maria Boromisa, Sanja Tišma, Anastasya Ležaić, 2015-06-26 A green economy must be built on green jobs the kind of employment that is low carbon intended to reduce energy use and expected to restore environmental quality But attempts to define exactly what a green job is have led to varied and often contradictory answers There are many unresolved questions including whether we consider jobs in the nuclear fuel industry to be green jobs Or is a worker at a glass making company which supplies the glass for the solar photovoltaic industry doing a green job given that glass making is a dirty industry This book deals with the relationship between green concepts green jobs green economy green growth and sustainable development It examines to which extent creation of green jobs supports overall economic development as opposed to creation of elitist jobs and greenwashing In order to do so general conceptual frameworks for green jobs green economy green growth and green policy are presented as well as their implementation in ten countries selected among the Group of Twenty The selection includes advanced the European Union the United States of America Australia Canada Republic of Korea Japan and developing countries Mexico China Turkey and Brazil The analysis presented in this book shows that although green concept is well intentioned its implementation depends on local circumstances economic political and social Developed countries perceive green growth as a way to create new markets and demand while developing countries rely more on labor intensive growth and less expensive green jobs Thus greening the economy does not diminish differences between rich and poor This book is suitable for those who study and work in Ecological Economics Sustainable Development and Labor Economics

Greening Industries and Creating Jobs Bela Galgoczi, 2012 How the objective of a resource efficient low carbon economy is to be reached and how the transition is managed are the key issues addressed by this publication The two main focuses are industrial policy and employment prospects on the road to a green economy that retains its industrial base Any lasting recovery of the real economy will necessarily take the shape of a more resource efficient production model While we argue that only a more ambitious and comprehensive European climate policy framework would have a chance of delivering the broader 2050 climate targets this does not mean that Europe has to give up its industrial base and its related competences Several chapters of this book argue that the option of attaining a low carbon economy through deindustrialisation would prevent Europe from preserving its competitiveness and knowledge base which are also essential for exploiting the potential of the emerging eco industry While decoupling economic growth from resource use is also possible with an industrial base that is more energy and resource efficient this does require a fundamental shift in terms of how the economy is managed and how business decisions are made Sustainable industrial and structural policies are needed also in order to ensure that this revolutionary process takes place in a socially balanced manner
