Handbook on the Science of Early Literacy Sonia Q. Cabell, Susan B. Neuman, Nicole Patton Terry, 2024-04-25 Synthesizing the best current knowledge about early literacy this comprehensive handbook brings together leading researchers from multiple disciplines The volume identifies the instructional methods and areas of focus shown to be most effective for promoting young children's PreK 2 growth in reading writing oral language and the connections among them In 33 chapters the Handbook covers conceptual foundations development and instruction of both code and meaning related literacy skills professional development and family engagement supporting equity across populations and learning beyond traditional boundaries including digital and out of school contexts Highlighted throughout are issues around access to high quality instruction working with multilingual populations and data based decision making and interventions Resources in Education ,2001 The Education of Disadvantaged Children Myra H. Thomas, 1966 Curricular Program Implementation in the Context of Randomized Field Trials Gloria Isabel Miller, 2011 Abstract curricular program implementation in the context of randomized field trials Gloria Isabel Miller This study examined three cases of commercially available curricular program implementations to determine if a unified approach to measuring the level of implementation was possible proof of concept Further the study investigated whether the level of curriculum and implementation plan specificity made a difference to the strength of implementation achieved in classrooms and described the implementation evolution in different contexts The study sample consists of a total of 163 teachers in eight school districts across the United States In each case teachers were randomly assigned to using the curricular innovation or their currently used materials and processes The three cases HS Math NewScience and MathIntervention were purposely chosen to represent three different points of curricular and implementation specificity and two different subject areas math and science Each case features a commercially available program that also had opportunities for teachers to use electronic technology to enhance their learning or to engage their students. The cases represent differing student grade levels. The cases are different enough to provide a range that exercises the measurement techniques introduced in this study so results can begin to generalize across curricular programs and grades However the cases are similar enough in research design instrumentation and data collection methods to make them comparable A key contribution of this investigation is the creation of a framework to measure the level of implementation the extent to which the teacher and students display the actions behaviors and interactions expected by using the innovation The unified conceptual framework arrived at by using an Activity Theory perspective together with the analytical methods employed provide a way to view the rich complex interaction of implementation as a system with the larger system of the school organization Data from the analysis revealed that variations in the level of implementation were no different regardless of the level of specificity A strong finding of this work is that implementation evolves slowly even when the curricular program is scripted and coaching support is provided to teachers The paper concludes with implications for policy and future research
