Histories of Digital Journalism Tamas Tofalvy, Igor Vobič, 2024-11-11 Building on the momentum of the recent historical turn in digital media and Internet studies this volume explores how digital journalism has developed from a historical perspective With contributions from established and emerging scholars from Europe Asia South and North America the book investigates not only how established journalistic systems transformed in the early days of digital but how the structural technological and cultural changes induced by digitization have reconfigured the trajectory of journalism. The book argues in support of three main claims. The first is that emphasis should be given to the plurality of histories instead of one single digital journalism history thereby acknowledging the complexities interactions of social relations cultural traditions power configurations and technological changes that have shaped journalism and digitization. The second is the decentralization and decolonization of digital journalism histories. The third refers to the need to highlight and demonstrate the idea that the evolution of digital journalism should be viewed as the co construction of the social and technological realms. With theoretical and methodological reflections on historicizing digital journalism along with original case studies or comparative inquiries into the phenomena over the decades long digital revolution of journalism this volume will shape the nascent field of digital journalism history and start a global critical exchange of various approaches to and aspects of historicizing digital journalism. As such it will interest scholars and students of digital journalism journalism history digital media Internet studies and technology studies.

Digital Papyrology III Nicola Reggiani, 2024-12-16

In the ever growing and evolving field of Digital Papyrology intending both the set of electronic tools for papyrological research and a new way of representing our knowledge of the Greek papyri in digital environments a focal current issue is the digital critical edition of the papyrus texts. Since new perspectives are emerging involving co occurring phenomena like the scribal writing act the materiality of the writing medium the linguistic background which affect our global comprehension of the papyri beyond the traditional dichotomy text context scholars are increasingly feeling the limits of the printed editions and of their simple digital reproductions. Several projects are proposing new looks at the papyri as cultural artefacts implementing annotation layers adding valuable information to the very texts. They mostly deal with linguistics palaeography documentary typology paging layout material features and attempt to integrate the traditional editorial platform Papyri info with new data clusters or even new editorial platforms. The volume investigates and discusses such new trends with the final goal of outlining the digital critical edition of the Greek papyri as an interconnected network of information.
