

Glory Movie Questions

1. How does the attitude of Colonel Robert Gould Shaw toward African-Americans change and why?

Colonel Shaw's attitude toward African-Americans changes over the course of the movie. At first, he is a white supremacist and believes that African-Americans are inferior to white people. However, as he spends more time with the 54th Massachusetts Infantry, he begins to see them as individuals and not just as a race. This change in attitude is what allows him to lead the regiment with respect and dignity.

2. What differences exist among the black soldiers who make up the 54th Massachusetts Infantry? What does this tell you about the different experiences of blacks in 19th-century America? What about their regions of origin, former status (enslaved), and educational background?

The 54th Massachusetts Infantry was a diverse group of men. They came from different parts of the country and had different backgrounds. Some were former slaves, while others were free men. This diversity is what makes the regiment so unique and powerful.

3. What attitudes did white soldiers have about the 54th? Did these attitudes change and why?

At first, the white soldiers in the 54th were prejudiced against the African-American soldiers. They believed that they were inferior and that they should not be allowed to fight alongside white men. However, as the movie progresses, these attitudes begin to change. The white soldiers begin to see the African-American soldiers as individuals and not just as a race.

4. Were blacks treated equally to whites in the Union army? Explain.

No, blacks were not treated equally to whites in the Union army. They were paid less than white soldiers and were often given the most dangerous and difficult jobs. However, the movie shows that despite these inequalities, the African-American soldiers fought with the same courage and bravery as the white soldiers.

5. What is significant about Colonel Shaw's decision to refuse pay for himself?

Colonel Shaw's decision to refuse pay for himself is significant because it shows that he is willing to sacrifice for his men. He believes that the African-American soldiers should be paid the same as the white soldiers, and he is willing to forgo his own pay to make that a reality.

6. Did that incident end as you expected? What feelings/oughts come over you still, still?

The incident ended as I expected. Colonel Shaw's decision to refuse pay for himself was a powerful statement that showed the African-American soldiers that they were valued and respected. It also showed the white soldiers that they were not superior to the African-American soldiers. The movie is a powerful reminder of the importance of equality and respect for all people.
