FUEL INJECTION SYSTEM 803-3

ANEROID COMPENSATOR FUNCTION

The bellows in the aneroid compensator is provided with an initial set force by the aneroid compensator spring (10) and is compressed by the push rod C (11). As the atmospheric pressure drops, the bellows (8) begins to expand against the force of the aneroid compensator spring (10), which in turn causes the push rod B (13), through the push rod C (11) and the boost compensator lever (12), to move to the left.

Then the push rod B (13) comes into contact with the U-shaped lever (16) and, as the expanding bellows overcome the force of the cancel spring installed on the U-shaped lever (16), causes the U-shaped lever to turn clockwise. Because the bottom of the sensor lever (15) is in touch with the tripout cam (51), the torque cam (51) then works as a pivot on which the top of the sensor lever (15) moves to the right together with the U-shaped lever (16). At the same time, the control rack (18), which is hooked on the sensor lever (15), moves toward the governor to reduce fuel injection.
