Forced to Flee Peter W. Van Arsdale, 2006-08-04 The Modern Refugee Era began with the end of World War II. An extensive literature has been created on the issue of refugees and other forcibly displaced persons during this period. While much of this has focused on refugee flight and post flight, Forced to Flee uniquely looks at the pre flight environment and the factors contributing to human rights violations therein. It is due to these abuses that many people flee their homelands. Author Peter W. Van Arsdale presents first hand fieldwork conducted over a 30 year span in six refugee homelands ranging from Sudan to Bosnia. This expert research bridges the emergent refugee and human rights regimes while addressing theories of obligation, justice and structural inequality. Van Arsdale also deftly tackles the difficult ideas of compassion, suffering and evil and introduces the concept of pragmatic humanitarianism. Forced to Flee is a comprehensive study that should be of great interest to scholars and practitioners of anthropology, sociology, social work, political science and environmental studies.

Dialogues on Migration Policy Marco Giugni, Florence Passy, 2006-03-30 Dialogues on Migration Policy brings together leading American and European scholars of immigration politics to address migration policy. Editors Marco Giugni and Florence Passy's aim to present a number of informed dialogues addressing three main theoretical concerns in this field: the role of the national state in a globalizing world, the determinants of policy change and the role of collective interests in migration policy. Adopting an unconventional format, the novelty of Dialogues on Migration Policy lies in the fact that it is structured around a series of debates among authors. In each debate, expert contributors working in different theoretical traditions and with divergent views on the subject matter confront each other, followed by a commentary from a leading scholar based on her/his reading of these authors' views. These lively debates are certain to engage scholars of migration, political science and sociology.

Trafficking & the Global Sex Industry Karen D. Beeks, Delila Amir, 2006-02-28 Trafficking of persons, mostly women and children for commercial sexual activities and forced labor, is one of the fastest growing areas of international crime. The United Nations estimates that 4 million men, women and children become victims of international trafficking each year. Trafficking the Global Sex Industry focuses on the international trafficking of women and children for forced labor and prostitution. This remarkable anthology takes a broad geographical and economical perspective while also dealing with the specificities of the socio-political background, poverty, opportunity, structure, legal conditions, the role of the state, gender structure and the organization of the trafficking business. The essays create a link from country to country demonstrating the worldwide nature of the problem Expertly written and well researched this collection gives the reader a clearer understanding of the problem and the actions being taken to combat it Trafficking the Global Sex Industry will have a broad market for readers on a national and international level especially among those interested in political science women s studies international relations and criminology Forced Migration and Global Processes Francois Crepeau, Delphine Nakache, Michael Collyer, Nathaniel H. Goetz, Art Hansen, 2006-03-28 Migration is at the center of much of the discussion on globalization Migrants move across borders and thus defy state centered traditions Migration is often caused or influenced by aspects of global change the transformation of the world economy with the expansion of free trade the modification of the world balance of power and the challenge of global insecurity the emergence of the global environment as an important political issue and the redefinition of the role of communities in shaping identities when faced with networks of migrants and diasporas Forced Migration and Global Processes considers the crossroads of forced migration with three global trends development human rights and security This expert collection studies these complex interactions and aims to help determine what solutions may alleviate most of the human suffering involved in forced migrations Crossing Over Holger Henke, 2005-01-01 Although migration by the very virtue of its transnational nature seems to invite comparisons relatively few books provide these in explicit form In this collection of essays the authors deliberately juxtapose the experience of different locations and or immigrant populations in order to systematically compare them Gender, Space and Time Dorothy Moss, 2006-01-01 Drawing on the work of Henri Lefebvre and Barbara Adam Gender Space and Time is a brilliant study that offers a unique and original threefold conceptualization of how space and time is developed and applied in an empirical study of women s lives Author Dorothy Moss focuses on the everyday practice and experience of women higher education students at a community college in northern England Women s action is considered in relation to the complex and interconnected spheres of paid work home leisure community and higher education Through highlighting concepts of space and time the complex relationship between networks of power and personal action gains visibility Moss conceptualizes women as centers of action and demonstrates the ways in which they construct personal pathways connect different spheres of experience integrate new time demands into the multiple rhythms of their everyday lives and carve out personal space Gender Space and Time is a timely and compelling work certain to be of interest to scholars of sociology women s studies and anthropology Mexico-U.S. Migration Management Augustín Escobar Latapí, Susan F. Martin, 2008-10-23 The need to understand the migration between the United States and Mexico is greater today than at any time in its century long history Its volume and complexity are greater than most observers might have imagined even a decade ago and it operates in a context charged with serious human political and security challenges Yet there is often confusion over the most fundamental questions about the demography economics and political nature of the movement and its policy responses The editors of this book bring together a team of top policy oriented migration experts from Mexico and the United States to provide an up to date analysis leading to grounded policy recommendations for both governments Their conclusions derive from new analyses as well as from detailed discussions with policy makers Contributors assess the main characteristics trends and factors influencing Mexico U S migration and recommend actions that should improve migration management substantially reduce undocumented flows and refocus Mexican migration into legal channels Also contained within this book are recommendations of development strategies in Mexico that should reduce mid to long term emigration pressures The book shows that collaboration between the U S and Mexico is not only possible but necessary as unilateral reforms will continue to fail until both governments act together to regulate the flow improve conditions for the migrants and make sure that migration has positive social and economic impacts on both countries

Catching Fire Nicholas Van Hear,Chris McDowell,2006-01-01 Catching Fire provides for the first time an in depth analysis of political and humanitarian catastrophes in which forced migration characterizes the complexity of both the emergency and the response In the volume a host of expert contributors examine forced migration both within borders and beyond borders exploring the varied circumstances that lead citizens to become refugees and evaluating the impact of relief programs on affected populations They present the findings of a three year multi disciplinary international collaborative research project that focused on the causes of displacement patterns of flight and settlement and the consequences of conflict resolution and humanitarian assistance Through comprehensive analysis of the ongoing conflicts in Burundi and Georgia the crisis of displacement in Colombia and the humanitarian crisis in East Timor among other case studies Catching Fire adds significantly to the ongoing debate between powerful states over the management of forced migration in the developing world The volume is a must for policy makers practitioners and scholars of forced migration and international humanitarian response

The Places We Share Susan Ossman,2007-02-09 While some people study globalization others live their lives as global experiments This book brings together people who do both The authors or subjects of these studies are of diverse national religious and ethnic backgrounds What they have in common is a connection to Morocco It is from this shared space that they draw on personal stories fieldwork and literary and linguistic analysis to provide a critical socially reflexive response to the conceptions of culture identity and mobility that animate debates on migration and cosmopolitanism On the trail of the Bedouin or Europe s new nomads and of Zaccarias Moussaoui Places We Share explores the relationship of mobility to subjectivity and how physically moving can be a way of escaping the stigma of being an immigrant Reading Rushdie listening to Moroccan women converse in the UAE or examining how the experience of serial migration can shape comparative ethnography we become more aware of how moving pushes us up against the limits of global experience These limits must be recognized They can be positively embraced to develop new ways of conceiving of ourselves the world and our connections to others

Return Migration and Nation Building in Africa Adele Galipo,2018-11-08 Return migration has received growing levels of attention in both academic and policy circles in recent years as the African diaspora s role in contributing to the development of their country of origin has become apparent. However, little is known about the lived experiences of those who come back and even less about the ways in which their return shapes socio-political dynamics on the ground. This book aims to unpack the complexities of migrant transnational experiences as situated in global political and economic processes. In particular, the book takes the case of the return of skilled and educated Somalis from Western Europe and North America in an attempt to recast the idea of diaspora return and transnational ethnography in a more political light and to show how these returnees are both subject to and generative of important political conditions that are transforming Somaliland society. Overall, the book captures the complexities of the migrant's position, showing that return is rarely permanent and that success comes from perpetuating the transnational stance. This book will appeal to scholars of migration, diaspora, development, and African studies, as well as to those interested in the Somali case, specifically the third biggest community of refugees in the world.
