

Glory Movie Questions

1. How does the attitude of Colonel Robert Gould Shaw toward African-Americans change and why?

Colonel Shaw's attitude toward African-Americans changes over the course of the movie. At first, he is a white supremacist who believes that African-Americans are inferior to white people. However, as he spends more time with the soldiers of the 54th Massachusetts, he begins to see them as individuals and not just as a race. This change in attitude is what allows him to lead the regiment with such success.

2. What differences exist among the black soldiers who make up the 54th Massachusetts? What does this tell you about the different experiences of blacks in 19th-century America? Think about their regions of origin, former status (enslaved), and educational background.

The soldiers in the 54th Massachusetts come from a variety of backgrounds. Some were born free, while others were born into slavery. They also come from different parts of the country, which gives them different perspectives on the world.

3. What attitudes did white soldiers have about the 54th? Did these attitudes change and why?

At first, the white soldiers in the 54th were often treated poorly. They were seen as inferior and were often the target of discrimination. However, as they fought together, their attitudes began to change. They realized that the black soldiers were just as brave and capable as they were.

4. Were blacks treated equally to whites in the Union army? Explain.

No, blacks were not treated equally to whites in the Union army. They were often paid less than white soldiers and were given less respect. However, their service was crucial to the Union's victory in the Civil War.

5. What is significant about Colonel Shaw's decision to refuse pay for himself?

Colonel Shaw's decision to refuse pay for himself was significant because it showed that he was willing to sacrifice for his men. It also showed that he was not interested in money or power, but only in doing what was right.

6. Did that incident end as you expected? What feelings?/thoughts come over you left with?

Yes, the incident ended as I expected. It was a powerful moment that showed the true character of Colonel Shaw. It also made me think about the sacrifices that were made during the Civil War and the progress that has been made since then.
