Daniel L. Everett

Holt McDougal Library In Darkness:

Holt McDougal Library, High School with Connections Geoffrey Chaucer, 1998-02-17 Dark Matter of the Mind Daniel L. Everett, 2016-11-15 From a linguist and anthropologist a fascinating argument about culture cognition and the concept of human nature Choice Is it in our nature to be altruistic or evil to make art use tools or create language Is it in our nature to think in any particular way For Daniel L Everett the answer is a resounding no it isn't in our nature to do any of these things because human nature does not exist at least not as we usually think of it Flying in the face of major trends in evolutionary psychology and related fields he offers a provocative and compelling argument in this book that the only thing humans are hardwired for is freedom freedom from evolutionary instinct and freedom to adapt to a variety of environmental and cultural contexts Everett sketches a blank slate picture of human cognition that focuses not on what is in the mind but rather what the mind is in namely culture He draws on years of field research among the Amazonian people of the Pirah in order to carefully scrutinize various theories of cognitive instinct including Noam Chomsky's foundational concept of universal grammar Freud's notions of unconscious forces Adolf Bastian's psychic unity of mankind and works on massive modularity by evolutionary psychologists such as Leda Cosmides John Tooby Jerry Fodor and Steven Pinker Illuminating unique characteristics of the Pirah language he demonstrates just how differently various cultures can make us think and how vital culture is to our cognitive flexibility Outlining the ways culture and individual psychology operate symbiotically he posits a Buddhist like conception of the cultural self as a set of experiences united by various apperceptions episodic memories ranked values knowledge structures and social roles and not in any shape or form biological instinct The result is a fascinating portrait of the dark matter of the mind one that shows that our greatest evolutionary adaptation is adaptability itself
