Chang,2012-05-31 Leading experts provide a critical appraisal of existing research and theory as they relate to issues surrounding the diagnosis etiology and treatment of major mental disorders among Asian adults Handbook of Multicultural Mental Health Freddy A. Paniagua,2000-06-05 Clinicians and mental health practitioners are regularly called upon to treat patients of diverse cultural and ethnic backgrounds Not only do these patients differ from Anglos in culture and language but also in customs beliefs values and practices

Understanding these differences is vital to performing an accurate diagnosis assessment of psychopathology as well as in determining an effective treatment regimen. This book provides vital information to clinicians worldwide in bettering their treatment of diverse populations. Each chapter identifies relevant cultural variables specific to each racial/ethnic group along with ethnocultural measures and their relevant psychometric properties. Part 1 presents introductory material on the definition of mental illness and pathological behavior in differing cultures, epidemiological data on the prevalence of different disorders between differing population groups, culture-specific beliefs (e.g., hexes) and the influence of culture on treatment. Part 2 discusses assessment issues including how specific measures (Rorschach, MMPI, etc.) are best interpreted with different population groups and the existence and use of ethnocultural specific measures. Part 3 discusses assessment and treatment of specific population groups (e.g., Indians, Asians, Latinos, etc.).

Men's Health Equity Derek M. Griffith, Marino A. Bruce, Roland J. Thorpe, Jr., 2019-04-25. Worldwide men have more opportunities, privileges, and power yet they also have shorter life expectancies than women. Why is this? Why are there stark differences in the burden of disease, quality of life, and length of life amongst men by race, ethnicity, disability status, sexual orientation, gender identity, rurality, and national context? Why is this a largely unexplored area of research? Men's Health Equity is the first volume to describe men's health equity as a field of study that emerged from gaps in and between research on men's health and health inequities. This handbook provides a comprehensive review of foundations of the field, summarizes the issues unique to different populations, discusses key frameworks for studying and exploring issues that cut across populations in the United States, Australia, Canada, the United Kingdom, Central America, and South America, and offers strategies for improving the health of key population groups and achieving men's health equity overall. This book systematically explores the underlying causes of these differences, describes the specific challenges faced by particular groups of men, and offers policy and programmatic strategies to improve the health and well-being of men and pursue men's health equity. Men's Health Equity will be the first collection to present the state of the science in this field, its progress, its breadth, and its future. This book is an invaluable resource for scholars, researchers, students, and professionals interested in men's health equity, men's health psychology, men's health gender studies, public health, and global health.

Neuropsychology of Asians and Asian-Americans J. Mark Davis, Rik Carl D'Amato, 2013-08-19 Neuropsychology with Asians and Asian Americans Practical and Theoretical Considerations J Mark Davis and Rik Carl D Amato editors The challenge of cultural competence for health providers is more than the recognition of other ethnicities it entails the balancing of group and individual factors to apply relevant information in diagnostic and therapeutic settings. Particularly in need of culturally appropriate services are Asians and Asian Americans populations that are diverse, growing, and underserved by Asian practitioners. Neuropsychology with Asians and Asian Americans takes cultural neuroscience to new levels in its variety and usefulness. Focusing on the largest groups of Far East and Southeast Asian descent, this leading edge reference examines the influence of culture on psychological processes and identifies sociocultural factors as they influence neurological aspects of client presentation. This expert coverage goes beyond well known constructs of collectivism and family orientation toward establishing an evidence base crucial to understanding, assessing, and treating Asian and Asian American clients, including linguistic factors and language assessment of Asians. Society and acculturation in Asian and Asian American communities. Mental illness from Asian and Asian American perspectives. Understanding cognitive differences across the lifespan comparing Eastern and Western cultures. Clinical interviews and qualitative assessment with Asian clients. Neuropsychological test selection with Asian clients. Unique in its scope and detail, Neuropsychology with Asians and Asian Americans is a necessary resource for neuropsychologists and rehabilitation specialists as well as social workers and clinical counseling and school psychologists.

Handbook of Multicultural Perspectives on Stress and Coping Paul T. P. Wong, Lilian C. J. Wong, 2007-02-15. Has the developing world developed modern concepts of stress? Are coping methods the same around the globe? Such questions are not simple to answer and until recently few knew to ask them. In recent years, Western psychologists have recognized that their prevailing views of psychology do not always translate worldwide and that no culture has a monopoly on either stress or coping. The Handbook of Multicultural Perspectives on Stress and Coping was created to address this realization. This unique volume moves beyond simple comparisons of behaviors in other countries by clarifying critical concepts in stress and coping, analyzing and synthesizing vast amounts of global data, and identifying constructs and methodologies necessary for meaningful cross cultural research. An international multiethnic panel of forty-five contributors presents elegant studies of stress, survival, and resilience as cultures evolve and countries interact, including personal transformation as a coping strategy, psychological skills that enhance intercultural adjustment, individual versus collectivist values in coping, Buddhist and Taoist traditions in coping, the cumulative effects of historical environmental and political stressors on nations in the Middle East, specific cross cultural perspectives from Latino American families to Canadian aboriginal peoples to minority university students. The editors have assembled a vital store of knowledge raising crucial implications for clinicians working with immigrant international populations and evaluating the current state of theory, research, and assessment. The Handbook documents major steps toward scientific advancement and human understanding.
