Identification of Internal Customer Requirements and Meeting Those Requirements Through Business Process Improvement Within a Quality Management System at an Australian Electrical Manufacturer Astrid Rotarius, 2001-05-03 Inhaltsangabe Abstract Increasing competition deregulation

globalisation and technological advancement continuously create new business realities for organisations in the marketplace. In order to cope with these structural changes many organisations aim at improving and innovating their business processes within the implementation of a quality management system. In today's competitive environment however it is not sufficient to implement internally oriented business process improvements. Instead companies have to concentrate on externally focused process improvements which add value to customers and thus enhance customer relationships. Such customer value driven process improvements help to integrate marketing and operations strategies and thereby provide a significant competitive advantage. A quality management system enables organisations to achieve a competitive edge through customer satisfaction in today's highly competitive domestic and global markets. Customer satisfaction forms an integral part of a quality management system which focuses organisations on meeting or exceeding customer expectations through outstanding product and service performance. The integrative approach of a quality management system motivates everyone in an organisation to serve the customer. Customers include the end user, external customers as well as all employees within an organisation, internal customers. As a result external and internal customer expectations and requirements drive business processes. Moreover quality and customer satisfaction are defined by customers and not by internal specifications. Therefore an organisation has to focus on adding value to products and services from the customers perspective. Achieving customer satisfaction by exceeding customer requirements is a growing concern to organisations throughout the entire business world. Australian companies thus have to meet increasing international competition by providing customers with better quality products and services at lower prices than competitors. In this system Total Quality Management represents the overall organisational philosophy of the quality drive. Kaizen is the instrument to achieve a quality culture in an organisation and Lean Management concentrates on the optimisation of time and cost in business processes especially in production. A quality management system therefore aims at coordinating organisational improvement programs. This paper aims at identifying

Guideline for EN 9100:2018 Martin Hinsch, 2020-05-02. The European Standard EN 9100 is the industry specific norm of the aerospace and defence industry. For cooperation with an aerospace company certification according to this standard is usually mandatory for suppliers. This book provides support in understanding and implementing the standard or when switching from ISO 9001:2015 to EN 9100:2018. After an introduction to the ISO 9001 the emphasis is placed on the core characteristics of EN 9100 and EN 9120. The book focuses primarily on the explanation and translation of the standards text into the language of everyday business. The structure of the book strictly follows that of EN 9100:2018. Numerous practical examples facilitate the understanding and implementation in your own company. Where appropriate special characteristics of the distributor standard EN 9120 are also discussed. Finally the author describes the certification process in great detail. This includes the preparation, the selection of a certification auditor and a certification body as well as the execution of the audit including process measurements, the handling of nonconformities and the issuing of the certificate. Due to the high degree of
