Tharp, 2001-02-06 Massive demographic upheavals are changing the societal identities of American consumers and disrupting the effectiveness of traditional marketing techniques The so called mass market is dissolving into smaller groups of consumers who express distinctive ethnic age related or lifestyle values by what they buy and how they buy it Consumers in different subcultures speak different languages read different magazines watch different networks on TV and buy in different places The lesson for marketers is clear a single marketing campaign may no longer effectively reach a broad spectrum of consumers Marketers and advertisers hoping to attract large numbers of American consumers must build relationships by mirroring the values and multiple identities of various groups Marketers need tools to link their efforts to consumers within several subculture communities Marketing and Consumer Identity in Multicultural America presents strategies and tools for marketers seeking to reach these emerging subcultures Chapter 1 introduces the phenomenon of multiculturalism in America and its impact on marketing Chapter 2 introduces the seven key shifts from traditional thinking that marketers must make to thrive in a multicultural world e g from market segmentation to market identification Chapters 3 through 7 profile five key subculture groups the elderly Latinos African Americans gays and lesbians and Asian Americans Chapter 8 profiles several emerging groups and chapter 9 is a comprehensive summary of marketing attitudes and techniques that are critical to success in this new multicultural environment

Shopping for Identity Marilyn Halter, 2000 In America today you can connect to your ethnic heritage in dozens of ways or adopt an identity just for an evening Our society is not a melting pot but a salad bar a bazaar in which the purveyors of goods and services spend close to 2 billion a year marketing the foods clothing objects vacations and events that help people express their and others ethnic identities This is a huge business whose target groups are the hyphenated Americans in other words all of us As immigrant groups gain economic security they tend to reinforce not relinquish their ethnic identification Marilyn Halter demonstrates that to a great extent they do it by shopping And their purchasing power is enormous How has the marketplace responded to this hunger Instantly and wholeheartedly tweaking old products and inventing new ones launching new brands in supermarkets new music groups vacation itineraries language courses toys greeting cards et cetera This nexus of business and ethnicity is already seen as the hottest consumer development of this decade and Halter is uniquely qualified to describe its origins the exponential growth of products and advertising and the phenomenal sales of items from salsa to Chieftains CDs She addresses her subject with an abundance of anecdotal evidence telling examples of ethnic marketing and interviews with entrepreneurs many of them immigrants who are vigorously seizing the opportunities offered by the business of ethnicity Shopping for Identity is provocative intriguing and farseeing illuminating an important aspect of our contemporary way of life while validating the yearning we all feel for connection to our roots From the Hardcover edition
