Marvelous Learning Animal What Makes Human Nature Unique Arthur W Staats:

The Marvelous Learning Animal Arthur W. Staats, 2012-06-12 What makes us human In recent decades researchers have focused on innate tendencies and inherited traits as explanations for human behavior especially in light of groundbreaking human genome research The author thinks this trend is misleading As he shows in great detail in this engaging thought provoking and highly informative book what makes our species unique is our marvelous ability to learn which is an ability that no other primate possesses In his exploration of human progress the author reveals that the immensity of human learning has not been fully understood or examined Evolution has endowed us with extremely versatile bodies and a brain comprised of one hundred billion neurons which makes us especially suited for a wide range of sophisticated learning Already in childhood human beings begin learning complex repertoires language sports value systems music science rules of behavior and many other aspects of culture These repertoires build on one another in special ways and our brains develop in response to the learning experiences we receive from those around us and from what we read and hear and see When humans gather in society the cumulative effect of building learning upon learning is enormous The author presents a new way of understanding humanness in the behavioral nature of the human body in the unique human way of learning in child development in personality and in abnormal behavior With all this and his years of basic and applied research he develops a new theory of human evolution and a new vision of the human being This book offers up a unified concept that not only provides new ways of understanding human behavior and solving human problems but also lays the foundations for opening new areas of science

Child Learning, Intelligence, and Personality Arthur W. Staats, 1971      Social Behaviorism Arthur W. Staats, 1975

Animal Nature and Human Nature W.H. Thorpe, 2018-02-19 Our views on human nature are fundamental to the whole development indeed the whole future of human society Originally published in 1974 Professor Thorpe believed that this was one of the most important and significant topics to which a biologist can address himself and in this book he attempts a synthetic view of the nature of man and animal based on the five disciplines of physiology ethology genetics psychology and philosophy In a masterly survey of the natural order he shows the animal world as part of yet distinct from the inanimate world He then treats aspects of the animal world which approach the human world in behaviour and capabilities examining simple organisms communications in vertebrates and invertebrates innate behaviour versus acquired behaviour and animal perception In the second part of the book he deals with those aspects of human nature for which there is no analogy and which constitute man's uniqueness his consciousness of his past his awareness of his future and his desire to understand the meaning of his existence The primary facts which demonstrate the importance of this book arise from the ever growing power of man over his environment and his apparent inability to foresee and cope with the dangers of uncontrolled population growth on the one hand and the wildly irrational waste and degradation of the natural resources of the world on the other Professor Thorpe believes that an immense responsibility lies with literate men of good will particularly scientists to convince man that he is the spearhead and custodian of a stupendous evolutionary process Animal Nature and Human Nature integrates scientific fact with sound theological thought in an attempt to fulfil in a manner previously impossible Pascal's injunction that It is dangerous to show man too clearly how much he resembles the beast without at the same time showing him his greatness It is also dangerous to allow him too clear a vision of his greatness without his baseness It is even more dangerous to leave him in ignorance of both But it is very profitable to show him both

Learning from Animals? Louise Röska-Hardy, Eva M. Neumann-Held, 2009      Not So Different Nathan H.

Lents, 2017-11-14 The biologist Nathan H Lents shows that humans and animals are not as different as once believed the same evolutionary forces of cooperation and competition have shaped both human and animal behavior He describes the strides scientists have made in decoding animal behavior to explain that we are distinguished only in degree not in kind

On Human Nature Arthur Schopenhauer, 2021      How to Be Animal Melanie Challenger, 2021-03-23 What makes us human and why are we so sure we're different from other animals Humans are the most inquisitive emotional imaginative aggressive and baffling animals on the planet But how well do we really know ourselves How to Be Animal rewrites the remarkable human story and argues that at the heart of our psychology is a profound struggle with being animal Most of our effects on the planet are the consequences of technological improvements and advances in our understanding of natural mechanisms But why did this cognitive and technological edge come about in the first place and what kind of being has it made us In How to Be Animal Challenger brilliantly argues that this dizzying trajectory is the result of a singular characteristic of our species the struggle with being an animal Using a combination of memoir historical texts interweaving interviews and cultural and environmental history How to Be Animal is lively and thought provoking bursting with ideas This is a book for anyone who has ever contemplated what humans are and what makes our species so simultaneously brilliant and awful Even more so it is a book that asks tantalizing philosophical questions such as whether and how human life matters How to Be Animal is a tough minded but ultimately sympathetic portrait of humanity It exposes human beings as extraordinary animals defined by a profound struggle In the third millennium the way humans respond to being an animal among animals is the greatest and most inspiring challenge we face      Understanding Human Nature Alfred Adler, 1932
