The Global Lab tells the story of a group of organizations and corporations using low income countries as a laboratory It reveals experiments with untested technologies biometric humanitarian solutions and radical methodologies for social change The book maps out the political institutional and ethical coordinates of emergent transnational practices of experimentation asking where and how this movement works while unfolding the human philosophical and political consequences of its ideas and interventions The book takes the reader through Silicon Valley Africa and Asia to understand the tangible and transformative implications of contemporary human experimentation It follows a set of main protagonists from the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation to experimental economists known as the randomistas to humanitarian organizations and pharmaceutical companies These actors form a movement inspired by the logic of Silicon Valley about the need for fast paced radical change and societal disruption technological innovation as progress and the privatization and commercialization of the human mind and body Ultimately the book examines the inequality of experimentation that is found in the erection of walls between us and them and the imagined universal and often unquestioned value of scientific and technological progress Trade-marks United States.
