Green Grabbing: A New Appropriation of Nature James Fairhead, Melissa Leach, Ian Scoones, 2014-10-29 Across the world ecosystems are for sale Green grabbing the appropriation of land and resources for environmental ends is an emerging process of deep and growing significance A vigorous debate on land grabbing already highlights instances where green credentials are called upon to justify appropriations of land for food or fuel Yet in other cases environmental green agendas are the core drivers and goals of grabs Green grabs may be driven by biodiversity conservation biocarbon sequestration biofuels ecosystem services or ecotourism for example In some cases these agendas involve the wholesale alienation of land and in others the restructuring of rules and authority in the access use and management of resources that may have profoundly alienating effects Green grabbing builds on well known histories of colonial and neo colonial resource alienation in the name of the environment Yet it involves novel forms of valuation commodification and markets for pieces and aspects of nature and an extraordinary new range of actors and alliances This book draws together seventeen original cases from African Asian and Latin American settings to ask To what extent and in what ways do green grabs constitute new forms of appropriation of nature What political and discursive dynamics underpin green grabs How and when do appropriations on the ground emerge out of circulations of green capital What are the implications for ecologies landscapes and livelihoods Who is gaining and who is losing How are agrarian social relations rights and authority being restructured and in whose interests This book was published as a special issue of the Journal of Peasant Studies

Coming of Age the RITE Way David G Blumenkrantz,2016-05-02 Coming of Age the RITE Way Youth How do we raise our children to be resilient self reliant capable adults who are competent and with compassion that is manifested in civic engagement for social justice The book sets forth guiding principles and clear methods for putting into practice a whole systems approach to youth development through rites of passage The approach involves connecting and enhancing environments and building competencies which promote the positive development of children and youth in their families in their schools among their peers in their community and with a strong connection to the natural world It provides extensive narratives and case studies to illustrate how a framework of rites of passage is used to weave a common language throughout the community and links techniques for youth development with prevention identification intervention and treatment and strengthens the fabric of community support

Sustainable Hospitality and Tourism as Motors for Development Willy Legrand,Claudia Simons-Kaufmann,Philip Sloan,2012-09-10 It is now widely agreed that the climate is changing global resources are diminishing and biodiversity is suffering Developing countries many of them considered by the World Tourism Organization to be Top Emerging Tourism Destinations UNWTO 2009 are already suffering the full frontal effect of environmental degradation The challenge for developing countries is a triple edged sword how can economic prosperity be achieved without the perpetual depletion of nature's reserves the destruction of rural habitat and the dislocation of traditional societies Many emerging nations are looking increasingly to the tourism industry as the motor for economic development with hospitality businesses at the forefront This book uses twenty five case studies to demonstrate how it is possible to create income and stimulate regional socio economic development by using sustainable hospitality and tourism attractions These case studies focus on issues such as the protection of indigenous cultures as a source of touristic curiosity the preservation of the environment and the protection of endangered species such as the plight of turtles in Sri Lanka or butterflies in Costa Rica to encourage tourism Some cases cover government supported projects for example the green parks venture and regional tourism development in the Philippines an archaeological park initiative in Honduras and the diversity of nature tourism in St Vincent Sustainable Hospitality and Tourism as Motors for Development is designed to give students academics and practitioners a guide for best practices of sustainable hospitality operations in developing countries Based on case studies it provides a road map of how to achieve the goals of sustainability giving benchmark examples The book not only taps into a contemporary business subject but aims to provide readers with a better understanding of how sustainable theories can be put into practice in hospitality and tourism industries in developing countries

Visionary Women Writers of Chicago's Black Arts Movement Carmen L. Phelps, 2013 A disproportionate number of male writers continue to be credited for constructing the iconic and ideological foundations for what would be perpetuated as the Black Arts Movement BAM Though an increasing amount of scholarship has recognised leading women artists activists and leaders of this period these new perspectives have yet to recognise adequately the ways women aspired to far more than a mere dismantling of male oriented ideals This book examines the work of several women artists working in Chicago a key focal point for the energy and production of the movement

Autobiography as Activism Margo V. Perkins, 2009-10-05 Angela Davis Assata Shakur a.k.a. JoAnne Chesimard and Elaine Brown are the only women activists of the Black Power movement who have published book length autobiographies In bearing witness to that era these militant newsmakers wrote in part to educate and to mobilize their anticipated readers In this way Davis's Angela Davis An Autobiography 1974 Shakur's Assata 1987 and Brown's A Taste of Power A Black Woman's Story 1992 can all be read as extensions of the writers political activism during the 1960s Margo V Perkins's critical analysis of their books is less a history of the movement or of women's involvement in it than an exploration of the politics of storytelling for activists who choose to write their lives Perkins examines how activists use autobiography to connect their lives to those of other activists across historical periods to emphasize the link between the personal and the political and to construct an alternative history that challenges dominant or conventional ways of knowing The histories constructed by these three women call attention to the experiences of women in revolutionary struggle particularly to the ways their experiences have differed from men's The women's stories are told from different perspectives and provide different insights into a movement that has been much studied from the masculine perspective At times they fill in complement challenge or converse with the stories told by their male counterparts and in doing so hint at how the present and future can be made less catastrophic because of women's involvement The multiple complexities of the Black Power movement become evident in reading these women's narratives against each other as well as against the sometimes strikingly different accounts of their male counterparts As Davis Shakur and Brown recount events in their lives they dispute mainstream assumptions about race class and gender and reveal how the Black Power struggle profoundly shaped their respective identities
