The Origins of American Criminology Francis T. Cullen, Cheryl Lero Jonson, Andrew J. Myer, Freda Adler, 2011 The essays contained in this book capture the stories behind the invention of criminology's major theoretical perspectives and preserves information from the generation that defined the field for the past decades that otherwise would have been lost This history shows criminology to be a human enterprise Its ideas were not driven primarily by data nor were the theories invented solely as part of the scientific process To the contrary American criminology's great theories most often preceded the collection of data they guided and produced empirical inquiry not vice versa This volume demonstrates that humanity is what makes theory possible in that diverse experiences allow individual scholars to see the world differently and thus shape theoretical paradigms based on their own unique life stories Routledge Handbook of Critical Criminology

Walter S. DeKeseredy, Molly Dragiewicz, 2018-04-09 The main objective of the second edition of the Routledge Handbook of Critical Criminology is twofold 1 to provide original chapters that cover contemporary critical criminological theoretical offerings generated over the past five years and 2 to provide chapters on important new substantive topics that are currently being studied and theorized by progressive criminologists Special attention is devoted to new theoretical directions in the field such as southern criminology queer criminology and green criminology The diverse chapters cover not only cutting edge theories but also the variety of research methods used by leading scholars in the field and the rich data generated by their rigorous empirical work In addition some of the chapters suggest innovative and realistic short and long term policy proposals that are typically ignored by mainstream criminology These progressive strategies address some of the most pressing social problems facing contemporary society today which generate much pain and suffering for socially and economically disenfranchised people The new edition of the Handbook is a major work in redefining areas within the context of international multidisciplinary critical research and in highlighting emerging areas such as human trafficking Internet pornography and image based sexual abuse It is specifically designed to be a comprehensive resource for undergraduate and postgraduate students researchers and policymakers Inequality, Crime,

The Arts of Imprisonment Leonidas K. Cheliotis, 2016-12-05 The arts spanning the visual design performing media musical and literary genres constitute an alternative lens through which to understand state sanctioned punishment and its place in public consciousness. Perhaps this is especially so in the case of imprisonment its nature its functions and the ways in which these register in public perceptions and desires have historically and to some extent inherently been intertwined with the arts. But the products of this intertwinement have by no means been constant or uniform. Indeed just as exploring imprisonment and its public meanings through the lens of the arts may reveal hitherto obscured instances of social control within or outside prisons so too it may uncover a rich and possibly inspirational archive of resistance to them. This edited collection sheds light both on state use of the arts for the purposes of controlling prisoners and the broader public and the use made of the arts by prisoners and portions of the broader public as tools of resistance to penal states. The book also includes a number of chapters that address arts in prisons programmes making distinctive contributions to the literature on their philosophy formation operation effectiveness and research evaluation as well as taking care to explore the politics surrounding and underpinning these multiple themes.

Transitional Justice and Legacies of State Violence Lisa White, 2015-03-05 As politicians public bodies and non Governmental organisations continue to profess an interest in making peace with the past this highly original study explores the motivation significance and legacy of making public experiences of state violence in Northern Ireland. Based on a synthesis of documentary material with the findings from a series of contemporary interviews this timely book uncovers the reasoning behind many Republican former detainees accounts of state violence and torture. It examines the aims of those who went public during the conflict and discusses the meaning they attached to their stories and the various responses to them. It also identifies some of the risks involved in criticising the violence of the British State and illuminates the ways in which truths are often contested in Northern Ireland both during the conflict and in the years which have followed. A unique piece of interdisciplinary work the study disentangles and evaluates the discourses presented by former detainees and makes an innovative and interesting contribution to knowledge about transitional justice and legacies of state violence. The book is suitable for social science scholars interested in human rights state violence criminology and transitional justice as well as those seeking to understand more about experiences of imprisonment and the legacy of the Northern Ireland conflict.

Working with Violent Men Will Hughes, 2023-12-19 Working with Violent Men gives a detailed insight into working with men who have been violent towards intimate partners. As such this monograph aims to contribute to a gap in knowledge and understanding within an important social and criminal justice topic. The book is underpinned by research based on participant observation at domestic abuse groups allowing for direct observation of behaviours and interactions including gestures and emotional responses as well as semi structured interviews with group facilitators and participants. It also draws on the author's experience of working with domestically abusive men as a probation officer and facilitator of domestic abuse programmes. He argues that groups involve a micro social order involving rules and rituals. These are continuously constructed and negotiated by participants against a backdrop of ideas about masculinity and involve the performance of gendered roles. Understanding the perspectives of these men as well the interactional rules, rituals and dynamics of programmes enables facilitators to navigate the hostility that men display and engage them in a process of change. Attention to these considerations has implications for the effectiveness of group based interventions in reducing violence against intimate partners and the training of those who deliver programmes. More general extrapolations are also drawn about contemporary understandings of gender, masculinity, identity and effective communication within groups. This book will be of value to undergraduate and postgraduate students with interests in domestic violence, gender, probation and the rituals of social interactions. It will also be useful to academics, researchers and policymakers wishing to explore and develop approaches to work with domestically violent men. Violence at the Intersection Toya Z. Like, 2024-08-01. Violence at the Intersection: The Interlocking Impact of Race, Ethnicity, Gender, and Class on Risk and Resilience builds upon and expands recent scholarship on the intersectionality of race, ethnicity, gender, gender identity and class and their multiplicative effects on violent offending and victimization. Specifically, the work examines how these intersections of identity not only affect risks for experiences with violence but also account for the development and expansion of social capital in the form of resilience and human agency among those at risk. The results of the research provide a critical assessment of how embodied identities are commonly used to assess those at risk while largely ignoring that these individuals are simultaneously at resilience. This work moves beyond the extant literature by considering the role of resilience in violence among disadvantaged groups. The work also contributes to growing research on identity and its centrality to experiences with violence and provides an in depth understanding of varied pathways to human agency and the development of social capital even among those who are deemed disadvantaged in society. This book will appeal to undergraduate and postgraduate students as well as postdoctoral researchers interested in fields including Criminology, Criminal Justice, Women, Gender Studies, Sexuality Studies, Race and Ethnicity Studies and Violence Studies. The Messerschmidt, 2004-10-08 Sociologists and criminologists have long known that there is a relationship between masculinity and crime Indeed gender has been advanced consistently as the strongest predictor of criminal involvement Flesh and Blood provides a fascinating account of the connection among adolescent gender diversity the body and assaultive violence The book is divided into four parts In Part I the author explores the history of criminology as a discipline paying particular attention to the misgivings about the body gender and crime Messerschmidt shows that criminology historically has maintained in various ways the mind body sex gender and gender difference binaries In Part II Messerschmidt presents a theoretical framework structured action theory for overcoming these binaries This perspective allows conceptualization of embodiment as a lived aspect of gender both gender differences and gender similarities in the commission of crime how embodied social action is embedded in specific structural gender relations in particular settings and how embodied social actions may be related to violence and nonviolence The methodology for the study is also presented in Part II which seeks to understand through life history interviews certain boys and girls use of assaultive violence as a gendered practice Part III presents in depth life histories of four white working class boys and girls involved in assaultive violence The two chief questions addressed in these life stories are Why is it that some boys and some girls engage in assaultive violence and how are these violent boys and girls similar and different How are gender relations in specific settings such as the family the school and the street related to motivation for embodied violence and nonviolence by the same boys and girls Part IV puts structured action theory to work by analyzing the three major sites home school and street of the boys and girls life histories and how these are related to assaultive violence and nonviolence
